Joanne Roukens: (10:08) got it

Anna: (10:09) Was asked by a patron if Novelist was available as an app?

Courtney Nieddu: (10:11) I think my pop-up blocker caught it... I allowed pop-ups, but I still don't see it.

Christine Crawford: (10:11) mine too...it was there then disappeared

Joanne Roukens: (10:11) However, there is a NJ State library webinar about using EBSCO on a mobile device. I will check on the info for you in a few minutes

Anna: (10:11) Mine too

Doris D'Elia: (10:12) disappeared from mine, too

Joanne Roukens: (10:12) just go to your browser window

Joanne Roukens: (10:12) it should be there now.

Anna: (10:12) thx

Joanne Roukens: (10:14) these should all open as separate tabs in your browser

Rachel Cantor: (10:16) I could hear the person who said to go back to the presentation, I can barely hear the presenter

Joanne Roukens: (10:17) try your volume control at your end. She is coming in clear at my location.

Joanne Roukens: (10:17) Anyone else having trouble hearing Tamara?

Courtney Nieddu: (10:17) She is much quieter than you.

Christine Crawford: (10:17) she is definitely coming through more quietly than you, but I can hear her

Joanne Roukens: (10:17) I'm a boomer!

Anna: (10:17) @Rachel: Adjust your volume. For some reason Joanne is coming in louder, so I adjust volume.

Doris D'Elia: (10:18) I turned up my computer volume, but have to turn Joanne way down.

Courtney Nieddu: (10:18) Oh, sorry, that wasn't intended as a personal comment!

Linda Hoffman: (10:18) Yes - Tamara is softer

Jennifer Servello: (10:18) She is much quieter

Joanne Roukens: (10:34) I have to get this book!

Anna: (10:35) @Joanne--Was thinking the same thing.

Joanne Roukens: (10:35) I listen to a lot of books in the car, so I hope some of these are on CD.

Joanne Roukens: (10:36) wonderful!

Stephanie Singer: (10:36) they are. That's I was first introduced to them

Anna: (10:36) Cool. I need something to listen to my drive to work

Joanne Roukens: (10:37) thanks for the explanation, I never heard of that genre

Doris D'Elia: (10:37) new to me too

Anna: (10:39) This series is very popular at our library.

Stephanie Singer: (10:39) was not terribly impressed with the movie version

Doris D'Elia: (10:39) book is always better!

Joanne Roukens: (10:39) film versions can be very disappointing

Anna: (10:40) @Doris-I agree

Christine Crawford: (10:40) book is way better than the movie!

Joanne Roukens: (10:40) not always, Doris. Try reading Ben-Hur

Doris D'Elia: (10:40) ture!!

Doris D'Elia: (10:40) true

Joanne Roukens: (10:40) No one had done a first class version of Wrinkle in Time, but they have tried

Joanne Roukens: (10:41) has

Doris D'Elia: (10:41) liked this

Doris D'Elia: (10:42) my daughter loved this (she's now 26)

Doris D'Elia: (11:11) Thank you!

Anna: (11:11) Thanks!

Rachel Cantor: (11:11) Great presentation. Thank you.

Jane Bogdan: (11:11) In addition to Hunger games how about some other YA titles?

Courtney Nieddu: (11:11) Thanks! Awesome recommendations!

Linda Hoffman: (11:11) Good time to recommend Garden State Book Award Selections -- get kids to vote!

Doris D'Elia: (11:11) Philip Pullman series for YA, and Garth Nix Sabriel series

Amy Ipp: (11:12) One thing I try to do is have 2 copies of the first book of popular series, that way I can get kids started with a series they might like.

Joanne Roukens: (11:12) I promised all of you some info on a NJSL webinar on EBSCO mobile - here it is:

Doris D'Elia: (11:13) I always use Garden State Teen Book awards list, too

Doris D'Elia: (11:13) Kristin Cashore's, too

Kimberly Hall: (11:13) Evaluation...wufo link not found?

Christine Crawford: (11:14) the knife of never letting go is one of my favorites - a combination of dystopia and sci-fi

Stephanie Singer: (11:14) is clique series ok for middle school?

Doris D'Elia: (11:14) Max series flies off my shelves

Joanne Roukens: (11:14) I will check on that Kimberly and should be available later today.

Anna: (11:14) Wufoo not accessible.

Courtney Nieddu: (11:15) I love Maggie Stievater's (spelling?) trilogy - Shiver, Linger and Forever. It's sort of an alternative to Twilight-esque dark fantasy.

Joanne Roukens: (11:15) Seems to be a problem with the Wufoo form. I'll get that fixed later today. I will send you all a reminder with the corrected link.

Rachel Cantor: (11:15) No

Kimberly Hall: (11:15) Thanks for checking on the link.

Christine Crawford: (11:15) no - surprisingly few thor requests!

sandybochese: (11:15) Glad to see Wendy Mass's books here. She is a NJ author and will be doing an author visit at my school this month.

Courtney Nieddu: (11:15) Joanne - I just wanted to say again that Terri Heebner was here with me, she couldn't get logged in on her computer.

mary Lynn williams: (11:16) Robin McKinley

Courtney Nieddu: (11:16) There's the Once Upon a Time series - there are a few different authors.

Doris D'Elia: (11:16) Very good -- also Jo DiNapoli

Linda Hoffman: (11:16) Neil Gaiman Books

Courtney Nieddu: (11:16) Thanks!

Theresa Preziosa: (11:17) The evaluation link isn't valid.

Linda Hoffman: (11:17) Yes! They all fly off our shelves!

Doris D'Elia: (11:17) I can't get to the evaluation site either.

Courtney Nieddu: (11:18) Where does the Graveyard Book fall, age wise? I think it's in Juvenile here, but it seemed scary to me when I read it.

Rachel Cantor: (11:18) I would recommend for 10-12 yr olds

Amy Ipp: (11:19) Someone had a question about Clique Series. I do have it here at my middle school and it is enormously popular. I did get rid of Gossip Girls however. Would like to hear objections to Clique-maybe I'm on the wrong track with this?

Jane Bogdan: (11:19) What do the stickers say?

Linda Hoffman: (11:20) YA - Thirteen Reasons Why --

Kimberly Hall: (11:20) The Book Thief... The boy in the striped pajamasT

Amy Ipp: (11:20) I use my YA stickers for grades 8 and above to help me when advising 6th graders-that's where the sensitivity comes in.

Joanne Roukens: (11:22) Try this connect and see if it works:

Joanne Roukens: (11:22) <https://infolink.wufoo.com/forms/readers-advisory-for-youth-services-providers/>

Kimberly Hall: (11:22) The chronicles of Vladimir Tod : eighth grade bites

Doris D'Elia: (11:22) it works

Joanne Roukens: (11:22) excellent!

Kimberly Hall: (11:22) curb appeal=check outs!

Tamara Richman: (11:23) Sarah Mlynowski

Kimberly Hall: (11:23) ALL street lit

Rachel Cantor: (11:24) I work in a very religious community. We get asked for "clean books"

Linda Hoffman: (11:25) Can you share?

Rachel Cantor: (11:25) That is exactly it

Joanne Roukens: (11:25) I will get this slide corrected - attempting now

Kimberly Hall: (11:25) many requests after reading Walter Dean Meyers what to read next

Rachel Cantor: (11:25) They want their kids to read waht they read...like Bobbsey Twins!

Doris D'Elia: (11:25) One of the popular series is Susan Beth Pfeffer's Life as We know it

Elaine Pollak: (11:26) That would be wonderful!

Linda Hoffman: (11:26) Thank you!

Amy Ipp: (11:26) violence does not seem to bother the students but I am quite cautious about sex in novels. I often ask kids about violent books, especially boys, and it does not seem to bother them at all.

Kimberly Hall: (11:27) myers sorry

Amy Ipp: (11:27) have you read Escape from Furnace series? The first one really bothered me.

Amy Ipp: (11:28) boys are put in prison for crimes they do not commit-very graphic and hopeless but 8th grade boys like it

Linda Hoffman: (11:29) Carmen - is in play format. I have not read it, but one of our young college students has and she like it.

Linda Hoffman: (11:29) "liked"

Christine Crawford: (11:29) thank you - great presentation!

Maureen Gaspari: (11:29) Thank you for all the great titles
